ROOSEVELT ARRIVES HOME.

Honored by Great Reception in New York.

Former President Remains Recipient and Will Discuss Politics Later.

New York, June 18.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, on his arrival home to-day after an absence of fifteen months, received a rousing welcome. He bore with his usual buoyancy a day of heavy fatigue, public duties and private emotions commingled, and at 4:40 o'clock this afternoon, after a family reunion at the home of Theron Butler, grandfather of his prospective daughter-in-law, Miss Eleanor Butler Alexander, left the city he had surveyed the same morning from afloat, reviewed in parade ashore and greeted by explicit word of mouth to be welcomed more intimately by his life-long neighbors at Oyster Bay, L. I. to-night. Tomorrow he will rest.

That the enthusiastic welcome given him by his own countrymen pleased him far more than any reception, however magnificent, in his tour of Europe, was evident by words and expression. In his first address he said:

"I have been a year and a quarter from America, and I have seen strange and interesting things, alike in the heart of the frowning wilderness and in the capitals of the mightiest and most highly polished of civilized nations.

"I have thoroughly enjoyed myself, and now I am more glad that I can say to get home, to be back in my own country, back among the people I love, and ready and eager to do my part, so far as I am able, in helping solve the problems which must be solved if we, of this greatest democracy upon which the sun has ever shone, are to see its distinct rise to the high level of our hopes and its opportunities.

As a private citizen he was the same outspoken, vigorous man of words and deed that the city of his birth has known for thirty years as assemblyman police commissioner, assistant secretary of the navy, colonel of the rough riders, governor of the state, vice president and president of the nation, and more latterly ambassador to the jungle and monitor to those who sit in the seats of the mighty.

He had an expansive smile for everybody, a cheery word for the "boys" his old friends the newspaper men, a pat anecdote for the politicians, especial greetings of affection for his old command the rough riders, a quick eye for absolutely everything Lyman Abbott, he called "partner;" Jacob Riis was plain "Jake;" Assembyman "Paradise Jimmy" Oliver was greeted by his nickname. Senator Thomas Brady, his old antagonist in state politics, he rallied expertly and so he went down the line.

Roosevelt "good luck" still followed him. Though hot and sultry, the weather held fair until marine parade, the exercises at the Bazaar and the march up Broadway and Fifth avenue to Central Park had been carried through with punctuality and precision. Then it rained great gushes. A torrential thunder shower, accompanied by a high wind that did much damage, swept suddenly down on the homeward-bound visitors; but cleared again shortly before 5 o'clock in plenty of time to give his eager fellow-citizens of Long Island a good chance to see him standing on the rear platform of his special train as he waved them a welcome.

In a generation the nation remembers three great welcomes before this of to-day—Gen. Grant at San Francisco, after his triumphal tour of the world, following the expiration of his two terms as president; to Admiral Dewey on his return from the the capture of the Philippines, and to William Jennings Bryan, also after a tour of the world.

The welcome to Grant was the most tumultuous, that to Dewey the most elaborate and stately; but the welcome to Roosevelt to-day was shot through with a dramatic expectancy which long ago found popular expression in the typical phrase, "The return from Elba."

Grant on his return was still a political possibility; but as events proved, foredoomed to defeat.

Admiral Dewey was a hero, not a national leader. Bryan, prominent as his part had been before the people, had never been intrusted by them with executive responsibility.

Roosevelt had been something of all things all these men had been—statesman and "soldier" and sailor, too. Born in the East, he had made an especial friend of the West. Therefore his welcome to-day brought men from all parts of the country. Therefore it was national.

The first zest of public curiosity satisfied, speculation now turns on what share Roosevelt will take in an acute political situation within his own party, of which he had already been advised abroad by old associates who had earned him tidings. But on that score speculation must rest unsatisfied.

The colonel had positively declared his intentions by wireless the night before.

I shall have nothing whatever to say in the immediate future about politics," and he kept his word.

It was the policy he had announced on his departure for Europe; he had reiterated on his return to civilization, and to which he had steadfastly adhered in all his addresses before the learned societies and universities of Great Britain and the Continent. Therefore, there was nothing in the only speech he made here to-day that could be construed as applying specifically to this or that phase of immediate state or national issue. That he will be impelled to take a hand in the New York campaign this fall is a foregone conclusion, but by his own declaration he will not commit himself to any expression of opinion until he has acquainted himself at first hand after long conferences with those best informed of just how the political landscape shapes itself.

GREEN RIVER TOBACCO ASSOCIATION

Will Meet in Regular Session at Hawesville Thursday July 7.

No ice is hereby given that the third quarterly meeting of the Green River District Tobacco Growers' Union A. S. of E. will convene in Hawesville, at 9 o'clock a. m. on Thursday, July 7. We have been informed that the Hancock county union is making preparation to meet a large delegation from not only Hancock; but from the counties of Daviess, Ohio McLean, Breckinridge and Southern Indiana. In fact a whole week will be devoted in Hancock, to a great revival just before this district meeting is to convene, and in view of the great importance of this coming convention, we earnestly request that all local unions in the district call a special meeting and select a full quota of delegates for this meeting. When this is done let all who can also attend and make this the greatest meeting yet held in the history of the organization.

Mr. A. R. Ross, who began teaching in 1873 attended the examination and made an average of 87 per cent. Mr. Ross has not taught for several years, but as his grade shows, he is still very much alive to the educational interests of the day.

The State meeting of the K. E. A. is in session at Henderson this week. Prof. Brown, Prof. Mason and others of the county are in attendance.

After the 4th of July, the Superintendent will be away from this office most of the time looking after the building and repairing of school houses. Any one having business with him should call on Saturdays. It is very earnestly desired that the public take notice to the above statement as it will save trouble both ways.

At the regular examination to be held July 15th and 16th, Hartford a competitive examination will be held for all those seeking an appointment to the State University at Lexington.

The contract for building the school house in division 2, sub-district 11, will be let on July 2nd.

ATTORNEYS BELIEVE COUNTY WILL WIN

In U. S. Circuit of Appeals Case of A. B. Beard Against It.

Mr. E. M. Woodward and County Attorney C. E. Smith returned the latter part of last week from Cincinnati, Ohio, where they had been to argue the case of A. B. Beard against Ohio County, representing the county in the litigation. They report that the indications are quite favorable for a decision in favor of the county. They base their opinion on the manner of questions which were asked attorneys representing the two litigants. From these it seemed apparent that the three Judges composing the Court are inclined to the theory advanced by the county. The court will convene again in July, at which time an opinion in the case will probably be handed down. All the opinions of Circuit Court of Appeals are like the Kentucky Court of Appeals published in a series of reports.

The personal of the court was Judge Warrington, of Cincinnati, who succeeded Judge W. H. Taft, when he retired from the bench several years ago to accept the governorship of the Philippine Islands. Judge Knappen of Grand Rapids Michigan and Judge McColl of Memphis Tennessee. The court heard the case in a very painstaking and patient manner and was before the close of the four hours argument allotted thereto, thoroughly familiar with all of the points raised in the case.

It is not definitely known what further steps will be taken in the matter if an opinion unfavorably to the county is rendered but it is quite probable that the case will be carried to the United States Supreme Court. Attorneys representing the county as well as the officials thereof, are doubtless imbued with the justness of their contention and will no doubt fight the case through all the courts.

School Notes.

There were 26 applicants for certificates at the examination held at Fortsville, last Friday and Saturday. There were eight first-class, eleven second class, and two third class certificates granted; the other five having failed. Miss Birdie Mae Nabors, of near Narrows, made the best average 90.5-11 per cent.

Mr. A. R. Ross, who began teaching in 1873 attended the examination and made an average of 87 per cent. Mr. Ross has not taught for several years, but as his grade shows, he is still very much alive to the educational interests of the day.

The State meeting of the K. E. A. is in session at Henderson this week. Prof. Brown, Prof. Mason and others of the county are in attendance.

After the 4th of July, the Superintendent will be away from this office most of the time looking after the building and repairing of school houses. Any one having business with him should call on Saturdays. It is very earnestly desired that the public take notice to the above statement as it will save trouble both ways.

At the regular examination to be held July 15th and 16th, Hartford a competitive examination will be held for all those seeking an appointment to the State University at Lexington.

HENRY LEACH, S. C. S.

Among the Lodges.

Eastern Star Chapter will have degree work at the regular meeting next Monday and every member is urged to be present.

Hartford Lodge No. 675 F. & A. M. held its regular session last Monday evening but only business matters were attended to. Two new positions were received.

Rough River Lodge No. 110, K. of P., had a good attendance Tuesday evening and conferred the Page rank on two candidates. Work in the Rank of Esquire will be put on next Tuesday evening and every member is urged to be present.

Their many friends wish them success and happiness.

HUNDREDS ATTENDING THE CONVENTION.

of the Kentucky Educational Association at Henderson-- Prominent Educators.

Henderson, Ky., June 21.—Seven hundred teachers and delegates were present at the opening of the thirtyninth annual meeting of the Kentucky Education Association to-day in the Park theater.

The day's programme was opened by the rendition of a song of welcome by the pupils of the high school. The invocation was by the Rev. James A. Chandler, of the First Methodist church. President T. C. Cherry then introduced the Hon. N. Powell Taylor who welcomed the teachers in a most cordial and eloquent manner. This was responded to by President Cherry.

State Superintendent Ellsworth Regenstein delivered an address at the morning session.

Among the prominent delegates present are Prof. E. H. Mark of Louisville; A. Carnegie, of Paducah; Dr. J. C. Crabb, of Richmond; Dr. R. H. Crossfield, of Transylvania University, Lexington; McHenry Rhoads, of Owensboro; Banksdale Hamlet, of Hopkinsville; Hardin Lucas, of Louisville; John J. Tigert, of Wesleyan College, Winchester, and A. C. Benton, of Mayfield.

The Woman's club will give a reception to the visiting teachers tomorrow afternoon.

J. O. KIMBLEY KILLED BY TRAIN

Last Tuesday Night on the L. & N. Railroad in a Man- ner Unknown.

J. O. Kimbley, a most estimable highly respected gentleman was killed Tuesday night on the L. and N. railroad in some manner just now unknown. He had been on a business trip to Ceralvo, in Ohio county, and coming to Central City on the accommodation train that reaches here at 9:30 p. m. It is supposed, that knowing there would be no train till morning he started to walk to his home in Bevier. His body was found on the track in sight of his home with a 5-inch wound in the back of the head, the left foot and the right had crushed off. There was no evidence of a robbery as all his money was found in his pocket. As he was studiously a temperate man, never using liquor in any form, it is thought that he must have been overtaken by the freight and never noticed by the train crew in the darkness, as they did not know a man was killed until their return trip from Russellville, when on examining the engine, it is said a lock of hair similar in color to Mr. Kimbley's was found on the axle of the wheels. Mr. Kimbley was fifty-seven years old, and leaves a wife and four grown sons. His tragic death is greatly regretted by his many friends.

The funeral occurred at the Ceralvo burying ground, the old home of Mr. Kimbley.—Muhlenburg Sentinel.

Felix-Likens.

Mr. Thomas Likens and Mrs. Stella Felix were married at the home of the bride the twenty-first of this month. Rev. R. E. Bailey of Sulphur Springs, officiating.

Mr. Likens is a prominent citizen of Hartford, Ky., and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Likens of East Hartford. The bride is an attractive lady and is a daughter of Mr. Will F. Action of Sulphur Springs. The marriage was very quiet one, the attendance being only a few relatives and friends. Immediately after the ceremony, the bride and groom were accompanied to Louisville by the bride's brother, Mr. A. C. Action. They will spend a few days there, then will return to their home in Hartford.

Their many friends wish them success and happiness.

CONGRESS

NEAR END.

Adjournment Expected by July 25 at Fartherest.

Much Interest in the Appointment of Successor of Justice Moody.

nal passage early this week, and on Thursday the railway bill was disposed of. On Saturday the postal savings bank bill was under consideration and the final vote was taken before the day ended. There will be next week a motion to make the Appalachian Forest Reserve the special order of business in the Senate. There is a plan for building a number of large department buildings in Washington, involving an outlay of at least thirteen million dollars which it is expected will be launched at this session of Congress. The ground has already been purchased and a new State building a new Commerce and Labor building it is thought will be begun and completed in the next four or five years.

Ballinger Acquitted is Expected Saturday.

Washington, June 21.—When the Ballinger investigating committee meets next Saturday it will take a vote as to the decision to be rendered and adjourn until late in the summer, when its opinions will be made public. The meeting next Saturday will be perfunctory; the vote will be seven to five in favor of Ballinger. It is now stated that Representative Graham (Dem. Ill.) will write the minority opinion. Either Senator Sutherland (Rep. Utah), or Representative Olmstead (Rep. Pa.) will write the opinion of the seven majority members and Representative Madison (Rep. Kan.), an insurgent, will hand in a separate opinion against Ballinger. The three opinions are to be filed before the election this fall.

LYON COUNTY WOMAN ASSAULTED.

Authorities Searching for Unknown Assailant of Mrs. Kennedy.

Eddyville, Ky., June 21.—News has reached here that two unidentified white men had assaulted Mrs. Kennedy, a widow living at the Tennessee Rolling Mills, this county, and left her lying in her front yard unconscious. County Judge T. P. Gray, County Attorney J. S. Hodges, and Marshall W. P. McCollum, of Kuttawa, left here immediately for the scene of the crime.

Although very nervous, Mrs. Kennedy was able to talk and stated that she did not know the two men who assaulted her, but that they were white men.

She stated that the two men came to her house about 1 o'clock the night before and walked in upon the porch. She was lying awake, she says, thinking about her sick daughter and when she heard the footsteps upon the porch she thought it was her son-in-law coming for her and she got up and opened the door before any alarm was given.

The men seized her and dragged her into the yard, threatening to kill her if she made any noise. She fainted and remembered nothing more, she says, until her daughter who was sleeping in another room heard groans near the front door and went to investigate, finding her mother prostrated and unconscious upon the ground.

Officers and many others of the neighborhood began a search for the assailants. A man was arrested near the scene and lodged in jail here. Two other men were with him when the officers discovered them, but they made their escape. The prisoner claims that he did not know the men who ran; that he was passing through the country and just happened to be in their company when the officers came upon them. Several shots were fired at the two men as they fled.

Great excitement prevails and a posse is scouring the country for the men who committed the crime. There is doubt as to the guilt of the man now in jail, but the clew is being followed up of the two men who fled under fire from the posse.

GREAT REMOVAL SALE!

The Profit Removed in Order to Give Us a Big Advertisement for Our New Store.

$10,000 Worth of the Best Dry Goods

OFFERED AT ASTONISHINGLY LOW PRICES.

SALE COMMENCES SATURDAY, JUNE 25

Store will be closed all day Friday, June 24, in order to mark down our many lines.

We will soon be in our new quarters on Main street, Hartford, next door to the Bank of Hartford and second door from the Post Office, which we have leased for a term of years and where we will be splendidly prepared to cater to the Dry Goods trade. In order to advertise our new store and save the trouble and possible damage of moving, we are going to offer our entire stock at prices right down to the cost mark. This is no fake, but an honest statement. The goods and the prices will show for themselves. We intend to maintain our reputation for honesty and square dealing, and we could not afford to start out in our new quarters on false pretenses. We think we have rather surprised the public with the high qualities of goods we carry in all lines and the low prices at which we sell them, and we shall keep the surprise going on. We are not making much money on sales, but we are selling lots of goods to make up for that. We want to establish our business among you, and we know we can't do it unless we sell goods.

The prices below ought to tell the tale better than mere statements. They not only show the very profit-level figure at which we will sell goods, but you get a glimpse at the wide range of the different lines we carry. If you need goods, this sale is worth dollars to you. Let us supply you and allow you to keep the profit.

HANCOCK COUNTY

VOTES "DRY."

Temperance Forces Win by Majority of Over Eight Hundred.

Hawesville, Ky., June 16.—The temperance people won a great victory in the local option fight in this county here to-day, carrying every precinct in the county by largely increased majorities over the vote of four years ago, when the "drys" won by a majority of 385. Their majority to-day is slightly over 800 and the total vote was about 200 more than four years ago.

The we's made a desperate effort to win, importing two strong speakers of the National Model License League and holding meetings in every part of the county. In this way the temperance people were thoroughly aroused and they deserted work and crops and voted early. Three-fourths of the vote cast was cast before 11 a. m. The most perfect order was observed at all the polling places and there was no sign whatever of drunkenness, the wots having pitched their campaign this time on an intellectual plane. It seems, however, that this plane and their platform did not prove successful.

The citizens have been very indignant over the attempt of some one to nullify the election in four of the strongest "dry" precincts by breaking into the court house and defacing many of the ballots intended for those precincts, and they quickly subscribed a reward of $200 for the arrest and conviction of the culprit.

Saved From Awful Death.

How an appalling calamity in his family was prevented is told by A. D. McDonald, of Fayetteville, N. C., R. F. D. No. 8. "My sister had consumption," he writes, "she was very thin and pale, had no appetite and seemed to grow weaker every day, as all remedies failed, till Dr. King's New Discovery was tried, and so completely cured her, that she has not been troubled with a cough since. Its the best medicine I ever saw or heard of!" For coughs, colds, laryngitis, asthma, croup, hemorrhage—all bronchial troubles, it has no equal, 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

MANDA.

Mr. Editor and readers of The Republican:—As the clouds have passed away and we are permitted to enjoy the sunshine of Heaven and every living thing seems to be happy, we can hear the sweet songs of the birds as they perch upon the trees, we imagine they are enjoying the blessed sunshine even the cattle and other animals seem to be happy. The flowers and grass look proud, the growing crops and gardens have put on a different suit and appear altogether different. Farmers are rejoicing over prospects of another crop and even the smallest insects seem to be more alive. So there seems to be nothing more beautiful than a June morning like this. But to look back in the past few weeks of gloom and rain how we are made to rejoice when we hear the songs of birds and the hum of the bees and the merry plow boy as he goes to and from the fields to till the soil. Even the smiles of the country girls seem to be sweeter when they walk out in their flower gardens and see them putting on new life, it seems that everything is rejoicing over the sunshine.

A Woman to be Pittied.

Mrs. Hettie Green is known as the richest woman in the world. Whether this is true or not, it is true that she is very wealthy, and that the unknown number for millions she possesses have been accumulated through the exercise of her own financial skill. She was never a poor woman as ordinary folk estimate poverty, for she inherited a large estate from her father, but she has always lived as if she were instead of following the normal life, content with the income of the half million or so of her inheritance, she preferred to deprive herself and her family of the comforts and advantages that wealth offers, and also of the broader outlook on life that riches properly used enable one to obtain. All this deprivation was for the sake of accumulating a larger fortune.

She had undoubtedly great financial talent, and it is a talent much to Farmers should eat more oatmeal.

Although the farmer of today is able to buy almost anything he wants to wear or to eat he isn't paying enough attention to food values when it comes to his own table.

If he has been watching the extensive researches and experiments on the question of the best human food for muscle and brain he will heed the advice from all sides to "eat more Quaker Oats."

Quaker Oats is mentioned because it is recognized in this country and Europe as the best of all oatmeals. Feeding farm hands on Quaker Oats means getting more work out of them than if you feed them on anything else.

For hot climates it is packed in hermetically sealed tins; regular size package 10c.

be desired in a day when money meant more than it ever meant in the world before, and Mrs. Green is to be criticised for putting it to use. She had as much right to cultivate and exercise her gift for money-making as if it were a gift that would have made of her a great singer or artist or writer. The thing for which she it to be criticised—for which, rather, she is to be pitied—is that she chose to sacrifice all other desirable things in life to this one pursuit. She bent all her energies to the gaining of money and more money and developed such a love for the dollar that she grudged the spending of every one she was forced to part with. She is a woman of intelligence, and might have found pleasure in the society of cultivated men and women, but she lived in a way that cut her off from association with such people; she was born to the ways of refinement, but her later surroundings have been sordid and her manner of life beggarly.

If she had denied herself that she might apply her wealth to greater uses, another face would be put on the matter, but she saved simply because the dollar had become the great thing in life to her; she worshiped the money for what it was not for what it could do. She lost sight of real values and became avaricious, penurious, grasping. The other day she appeared in court to fight the payment of an honest debt of a few hundred dollars, feeble broken mentally as well as physically childlike in her wrath over the demand made upon her, the ruling sight. Her career has been a remarkable one in that she has offered a striking proof of what a woman may do in a field little known to women and an example on the other hand of what a woman ought not to do. Mrs. Green has had a great opportunity, but has seen only one phase of it, being held to the fact that money is a means, not an end. It is a pity.—Indianapolis (Ind.) Star.

Future Vegetarianism.

Prof. A. Woelkof, after an examination of the geographical and economic conditions of the problem, announces his conclusion that the future meat will become too expensive for ordinary food, and that man must eventually derive practically all his sustenance from the vegetable kingdom. But he believes that there will be no lack of food on that account, because the application of scientific methods appears to be capable of increasing the productiveness of the agricultural lands of the globe to an almost unlimited extent. He thinks the successful substitution of any manufacture product for vegetable food is extremely improbable, because plant life is capable of utilizing solar energy much more economically than any machine.

Everett's Explanation vs. Coal Facts.

Some people "get their foot in it" once in a while. When they discover that they are caught they immediately seek refuge behind "explanation." This is what Mr. Everett does.

He is now stating that he was compelled to dismiss his suit against the American Society of Equity in the case in the Hendricks Circuit Court because of the sickness of his counsel, Judge Heffron.

His complaint was in three paragraphs. The first on an alleged account stated, under which he claimed about $7,500.00. The second was for money paid to and for the Society's use, and for material furnished, including Up-to-Date Farming to members of the Society, and under this paragraph he claimed $25,000.00. The third paragraph was for an alleged breach of duty on the part of the Society in various regards, and under this paragraph he claimed $25,000.00.

On the trial of the cause he first put on the stand as a witness in his stand himself to support his claim. Before his cross-examination was completed and before being taken ill his counsel dismissed as to the second and third paragraphs. At the conclusion of Everett's testimony, his counsel announced that he had no more evidence to offer in support of the complaint and rested his cause.

When his degree was given him he went and applied for a job, just as anybody else would.—Puck.

GOV. PATTERSON IS RENOMINATED.

Resolutions are Adopted Condemning the Prohibition Law of the State.

Nashville, Tenn., June 17.—Governor Malcolm R. Patterson was renominated for Governor by the State Democratic convention here last night. Benton McMillan was nominated for United States Senator.

The Independence, or anti-administration Democrats, have put a judicial ticket in the field, and it is expected that candidates for other offices will announce shortly.

Senator James B. Frazier, who refused to enter the primary ordered by the state committee, has not announced whether or not he will run as an independent.

The resolutions condemn the prohibition law and declared for an amendment "Wherein it affects Nashville, Chattanooga, Memphis and LaFollette, and further pledge the Democratic party to the restoration to the people of the communities the right to control their own local affairs as they existed prior to the passage of the measure." They declare unreservedly against the "unrestricted liquor traffic," and favor the enactment of laws strictly regulating and controlling the traffic.

Man Was Armed Who Wanted to See President Taft.

Washington, June 18.—A muscular man, over six feet in height, with black hair and heavy black mustache called at the executive offices of the White House Thursday and asked to see the President. He was immediately recognized as the same man who visited the executive mansion June 17 of last year, and when arrested at that time had two pistols in his possession.

Taken in custody again Thursday, he was again found to be armed with a 44-caliber pistol. The man gave his name as James Stricklin and said he was from Cumberland, Md. When arrested a year ago Stricklin said he hailed from Arkansas. The man is being held for observations as to his sanity.

He claims that various persons are persecuting him and he wants the President to put a stop to it.

Wants to Help Some One.

For thirty years J. F. Boyer, of Ferndale, Mo., needed help and couldn't find it. That's why he wants to help some one now. Suffering so long himself he feels for all distress from Backache, Nervousness, Loss of Appetite, Lassitude and Kidney disorders. He shows that Electric Bitters work wonders for such troubles. adjournment of the court on the third day. At the opening of the afternoon session counsel for the Society, C. W. Smith, moved the court to instruct the jury to find for the defendant, for the reason that the evidence offered by the plaintiff showed that he was not entitled to recover.

Counsel for the Society made a very brief but convincing argument in support of his motion, during which Judge Heffron was taken with quite a severe attack of indigestion and was not able to proceed with the argument. His associate counsel declined to take the responsibility of attempting to answer the argument in support of motion. Thereupon the court, with the hearty approval of the Society's counsel, out of courtesy to Judge Heffron continued the case until the next morning, hoping that the judge might be able to proceed then. The next morning he was yet ill, and the cause could not be delayed. Judge Cofer and Mr. Dougan, associate counsel for plaintiff, (able lawyers) again declined to take the responsibility to answer the argument in support of the motion and after consultation with Mr. Everett and Judge Heffron they dismissed the cause.

After the cause was dismissed the presiding judge openly stated that he would have been compelled to instruct the jury to find for defendants.

The editor is of the opinion that the cause was dismissed because Mr. Everett and his counsel saw "the handwriting upon the wall."

Judge Heffron is an able lawyer of many years experience and got all there was in the cause out before the jury, with the above result.—Equity Farm Journal.

Valves in Bread.

Bread, the staff of life in North America and Europe, is practically unknown as such in the greater part of the world, and much more than two-thirds of the people living on this article of food. Nevertheless, bread, or rather the various kinds of bread that are used as food, forms the most nourishing diet known to science.

But, strangely enough, the most expensive bread is by no means the most nourishing, and, indeed, the most expensive of all breads—the fine white loaf bread of wealthy Americans—is perhaps the least in value as regards the chemicals it supplies for renewing the demands made upon the body. Black bread—a term usually taken to mean poor bread—is really more nourishing than the white loaf, and in general terms it can be stated as an absolute fact that the finer the flour the less chemical value it has when put in the human stomach.

Black bread usually refers to bread made up from rye, but the barley loaf of bread is very nourishing and is much more easily digested than either the wheat or rye product. Barley bread has passed out of ordinary use, yet 200 years ago it furnished the bulk of the breadstuff eaten in England and to-day is the staple article of food in all the Europe north of the German Empire.

As regards the nutritive values of rye and wheat bread, chemists favor the rye bread slightly, for it contains more soluble carbohydrates. On the other hand, wheat contains slightly more gluten, which is a valuable food product. The other chemical differences between rye or black bread and the wheat bread are very slight indeed.

For poorer people rye bread has the distinct advantage of keeping fresh much longer than wheat bread. Also it is more easily digested and it has a slight laxative quality. Therefore, for countless of dwellers in cities, tied down to desks and office work, the rye bread is useful. It is well to change from rye to wheat bread and by alternating between the two the health can be greatly improved.

Also where the digestive tract worries office workers, a diet made up largely of bread from the whole rye grain will give a quick return to health if persisted in for six months or more. Whereas a shortage of wheat is always accompanied by murmurs that the people may have to eat the black or rye bread, it is also a fact that persons reared on rye bread vastly prefer it. It is certain that the rye bread has a more characteristic flavor than the comparatively tasteless white wheat article.

FRIDAY, JUNE 24.

Who is A. R. Dunlap, anyway?

When Congress takes a rest, we will all take one on Congress.

The latest report from Washington is that Congress does not give a "dam" for Green River.

Wonder if A. R. Dunlap, editor of the Frankfort News, has been running a cheap boarding house.

The government and the railroads having signed a treaty of peace, business should resume.

Senator Beveridge and Bailey seem to have swapped sides politically. At least on the tariff question.

The $15,000 spent on the Ballinger inquiry is no doubt worth the entire amount to the magazines of the country.

If this hot weather continues it will not be necessary to make any special efforts to secure a tame Fourth of July.

Congress should have begun to prune the expense account when the members increased their salaries two years ago.

The new King of England recently ordered a member of his cabinet out of his presence. Is the king attempting to imitate President Taft?

The Indiana Democrats are going to eliminate Mr. Bryan from the fall campaign. The voters will doubtless eliminate Mr. Kern at the proper time.

The present Court of Appeals of Kentucky has again demonstrated that it is non-partisan in its decisions. It last week knocked out the ripper bill passed by the council of the city of Louisville, the sole purpose of which was to deprive some Republicans of office to which they had been appointed under the present Republican city attorney.

A few days ago we were handed a copy of the Frankfort News which contains a very flattering reference to the editor of this paper in more than a column article in which it attempts to belittle us because we told the truth about Frankfort. Now the Frankfort News circulates between the tunnel and the Kentucky River and no further, to speak of. So the Courier-Journal was engaged to answer our article for the News. We would never have known what nice things the News had to say about us, except for the kindness of a friend who happened to go to Frankfort and pick up a copy in a very secluded place.

Mr. Dunlap, Mr. A. R. Dunlap, Mr. Dunlap, editor of the Frankfort News, says, "It's high time that the people of Frankfort stop the libeling of that city by the country newspapers." This is a warm one. As though the Frankfort News was not a country newspaper itself. And then threatens to have the editor of this paper indicted for libeling Frankfort. Come on Mr. Dunlap with your indictment. If we don't prove every word we have uttered, with good men and true, we will take back all we have said. If you will consult a majority of your town people it is our opinion you will be advised that you are acting basely, if not absurdly.

The Courier-Journal also feels called upon to notice our little editorial concerning Frankfort, the capital dedication exercises, and makes a lengthy argument in favor of Frankfort for the seat of government. It was not always so with the Courier-Journal. If we remember correctly at one time the Courier-Journal thought the capital ought to be in Louisville. It is indeed a beautiful capital building and would be the pride of every Kentucky citizen, located in a place accessible and where it could be seen by visitors from other parts of the world, without making a special effort to do so. Even after you have reached the capital city it is a very difficult matter to get to the capitol building. This is known to everyone who has been on the grounds, and all the editorial space of the Courier-Journal devoted to the single purpose of proving otherwise for the next ten years could not change it. It is the common lament of the citizens of Kentucky that no beautiful building should be hidden away among the hills of Frankfort, the only town in Kentucky which in order to reach you must cross a river or go through a tunnel, and to get out of you must go through a tunnel or cross a river.

DEMAGOGY.

All of the Democratic newspapers and orators, big, little, old and young are engaged in a united effort to prove to the American people that the new tariff law is responsible for the increase in the cost of necessities of life. In doing so they frequently make ridiculous statements but which, if allowed to go uncontradicted may prejudice the mind of the voter who does not have an opportunity to investigate, and in fact this is the very thing which is sought by many of those papers and speakers without reference to the truth. In this week's issue of the Hartford Herald occurs the following editorial paragraph:

"Mrs. Housekeeper, haven't you noticed that you are paying increased prices for household necessities of late? Ladies' gloves that were $1 a pair before the passage of the Payne-Aldrich bill, are now $1.25. Ladies' shoes that were $3 are now $3.50. Ladies' sandal rubbers that were 25c a pair are now priced at 60c and 75c. Even the kitchen broom, which formerly cost but 25c and 35c, now retails at from 35c to 70c. The Payne-Aldrich tariff did this."

Now for the facts in the case. Ladies' gloves, tariff reduced under the Payne-Aldrich bill 50c on the dozen pairs. Hides, all classes, and from which the ladies' shoes are made, under the Payne-Aldrich Bill, placed on the free list and the manufactured shoes reduced lower than they were under the Wilson-Gorman Bill. Rubber, from which the ladies' sandal is made materially reduced. Broom corn from which the kitchen broom is made under the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, reduced. We challenge the Hartford Herald or any of these papers to mention a single article which the housekeeper has to buy and which is retailed at a higher price now than before the passage of the Payne-Aldrich Bill, which has been raised, or which has not been lowered under this law. The truth is that the foreign manufacturer is reaping a harvest on gloves and probably also on shoes, as he is now collecting the tariff which would have gone into the pocket of Uncle Sam. A case in point was the recent purchase by the John C. Lewis Company of a large consignment of gloves, mentioned in this paper a short time ago, being coolly informed by the foreign manufacturer that in as much as this government had taken off 50c duties, that he would add it on.

HIT DOG HOWLS.

Following the dedication of the new capitol at Frankfort, the daily papers of Louisville, announced that the ex-Democratic State officers had refused to take any part in the celebration and from the tone of the dispatches it was evident that only a few of Frankfort people had participated to any extent. This paper in commenting upon this fact declared what two-thirds of the people of Kentucky think and have always thought, that it was a mistake to have located the new capitol at Frankfort, and referred to the fact that the town had for years been engaged almost wholly in an effort to retain the seat of government and that her people would probably spend future years in an effort to get some of their money back in high board bills, from those who on great occasions would be compelled to resort to most any sort of means for accommodations, on account of the well known lack of hotel facilities in Frankfort. These observations seem to have very greatly "riled" one A. R. Dunlap, whose name appears at the head of the editorial columns of the Frankfort News, and he devotes more than a column of his valuable (?) space to personal abuse of the editor of this paper, but no where does he offer a single argument in refutation of what we said. Instead he insinuates that the editor of this paper is a "cheap sort of guy" and that he always stops at cheap board in places etc., seeming to think this sort of small contemptible chatter will furnish a complete answer to what we said. The editor of this paper has never stopped in Frankfort at any place except the Capital Hotel and boarded there during two sessions of the Legislature, and has no complaint to make against that house or its proprietors, except that upon large occasions it cannot accommodate the people who desire to stay there. Again Mr. Dunlap asserts that the editor of this paper has a special dislike for Frankfort, because he was turned down for the office of Fire Marshal. Mr. Barnett was never an applicant for either Commissioner of Insurance or Fire Marshal. The position of Fire Marshal was tendered him and after due consideration was declined. If Mr. Dunlap desires to tell the truth about this matter he will interview Mr. James, Auditor of State, whom he can see any hour of the day and who will verify the above statement. When he has done so, if he has any of the instincts of a gentleman, he will make the proper correction of a false statement, which he either ignorantly or knowingly publishes. Mr. Barnett never applied for the position of Insurance Commissioner or remained around there a "few days" trying to get any appointment from the present State administration. He could have been Fire Marshal had he accepted the position from Mr. James, and he is not embittered or disappointed in consequence. Besides, had he desired to live in Frankfort, he could have done so, without holding office, for we are informed that a few Republicans outside of office holders are permitted to live there, and any city which would tolerate the presence of A. R. Dunlap, is certainly not inclined to draw a very severe line on immigration.

Have You Seen it Advertised?

If you have, and its good and a Drug Store article, we have it. We don't however, sell a thing simply because it's being advertised. We must know first that it has merit and that the advertisement tells the truth. You can trust our judgement in these matters, or if you see it advertised and want to look into it, come to us. Every truly meritorious article that a Drug Store should keep is in our stock.

Remember that, and when you want anything in our line, come to see us.

Your Friends,

Hartford Drug Co.
(Incorporated.)

We Are Just a Little Bit Selfish

We admit it. We don't do as we do SOLELY for the good of our customers. There is no philanthropy about business.

When we stock up with nothing but high-grade groceries, we do so because we think the majority of people prefer that kind.

This is why they SHOULD prefer that kind—

Because the good of good eatables is far-reaching. Good eating is health, and health is EVERYTHING.

So you see that our good financially and your good physically are depending upon the purity of our food supply.

Our opinion is that it is just about perfect. We are anxious to have YOUR opinion.

Ringo will be unable to attend the first days of the special term of the Circuit Court which will begin at Hartford, Monday, July 11th, he, Mr. Barnes, will be appointed Commonwealth's Attorney pro tem until Mr. Ringo can arrive. Judge Birkhead also stated that the case of the Commonwealth vs. Beard would be called for trial first and that it would be Mr. Barnes' duty to represent the Commonwealth in that case. Mr. Ringo will probably complete his engagement in time to be present and conduct the prosecution in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Simpson.

Echoes from the County Court.

The following Com'th. cases were tried in Judge R. R. Wedding's Court last Monday:

Com'th. vs. David Kirk, charged with entering upon the inclosed lands of another and tearing down a division fence without the consent of the owner or tenant. After hearing the evidence the jury returned a verdict of guilty and fixed fine at $5. The fine and cost, including witness claims, amounted to $22.50.

Com'th. vs. Arthur Maddox and Geo. Matthews, charged with disturbing a public assemblage at McHenry. Maddox entered a plea of guilty, law and facts submitted to the court and fined fixed at $20, including cost, amounting to $25.50, which was paid. On motion of County Attorney C. E. Smith, the case against Matthews was dismissed.

Com'th. vs. Lon Taylor, of color, charged with selling liquor without license. After hearing the evidence, jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Com'th. vs. Geo. M. Maddox, charged with a breach of the peace, mention of which was made in The Herald at the time, has been granted a new trial and same is set for rehearing on Tuesday, July 19th, 1910.

Com'th. vs. W. S. Allen, charged with obstructing public passway, set for hearing next Saturday, June 25.

NEW REMEDY FOR BAD ROADS.

Molasses of Great Value in Improving Highways Mixed With Lime.

Molasses mixed with lime and oil is being experimented with by the United States department of agriculture in roadmaking, and this combination promises to prove of great value in bettering the highways in certain sections of the country.

Last fall the experts of the United States department of agriculture made several experiments on the streets of Newton, Mass. One that attracted notice on the part of authorities on street construction and no little ridicule was what was dubbed the "molasses road."

The street commissioner selected a difficult piece of road on Summit street, with a steep grade and a sharp curve—just the spot for quick destruction of a road by the automobile and heavy traffic and an equally advantageous place for observation of the effect of the strong wind.

A preparation of molasses, lime and oil was mixed with a small amount of cement and spread on the surface hot. The liquid in the mixture percolated to the substratum of rock and made a surface of from two to three inches of heavy material. That section has passed the tests of winter, and to-day the surface is so hard that considerable force is required to dent it with a pickax.

It is not slippery, it gives a firm footing for horses, and automobiles do not skid. On this section of Summit street are located fine residences and a large school for girls, and to-day, with the windows open, no irritating particles of dirt are driven into the dwellings.

Any one who takes a look at Summit street is not likely to gibe at the "molasses road." It is said to be less expensive than street watering.

The Generous Geologist.

The geologist is not stinted for time. He deals with big figures. It is refreshing to see him dealing out his years so liberally. Do you want a million or two to account for this or that? You shall have it for the asking. He has an enormous balance in the bank of Time, and he draws upon it to suit his purpose. In human history a thousand years is a long time. Ten thousand years wipe out human history completely. Ten thousand more, and we are probably among the rude cave men or river-drift men. One hundred thousand, and we are—when probably among the simian ancestors of man. A million years, and we are probably in Eocene or Miocene times, among the huge and often grotesque mammals, and our ancestor, a little creature, probably of the marsupial kind, is skulking about and hiding from the great carnivorous beasts that would devour him.—John Burroughs, in the Atlantic.

The Cost of Living.

Vague theories and pot motions about the course of the prices of articles that enter into expenditures for food and other necessities are little to the purpose, as all who undertake to investigate the subject soon find. The problem has numerous phases, and confining the examination to any one is a vain proceeding. Some of the figures offered are from interested sources and exaggerated or marked by concealments. A bureau connected with the Department of Commerce and Labor has just issued the annual government report on wholesale prices in 1909 which embraces 257 commodities and follows their changes in value with exactness. Few would guess that this list shows decline of 2.3 per cent compared with the year 1907, or that the wholesale prices in 1907 were the highest for any period in the last nineteen years. In the year 1908 the wholesale price of the 257 commodities was 3 per cent lower than in 1909, and here again the smallness of the margin will surprise those whose views are indefinite or conjectural.

Wholesale prices are not those with which average consumers are best acquainted, but their study is essential to a true understanding of the case. It is proposed to make the cost of living a campaign issue, but if the point of attack is an error the ammunition will be wasted and the real question will remain untouched. A cry of "Tear down the new tariff" has been raised. But as the cost of living has advanced as much in free-trade England and other European countries the remedy proposed is plainly illogical. If the United States should drop to free-trade basis the cost of living would not be reduced unless the ruined means of making a living prostrated prices and everything else. Prices were lowest between 1893 and 1897 and so were wages and opportunities for employment. Unjust manipulation of prices upward ought to be stopped, but trying to reach the evil by a war on a tariff because protective would be a blind act of folly, and a national calamity in proportion to the length to which it could be pushed.—Globe Democrat.

Old Soldiers Reunion.

The Annual Reunion of the Green River Association of Old Soldiers will be held at Hartford, Ky., Monday, July 4, 1910.

The greatest preparations have been made to entertain the old soldiers and their friends by the thousands on this occasion. Reduced rates have been secured on the L. & N. and I. C. Railroads from all points within a radius of one hundred miles and it is intended to make this one of the greatest reunions which has ever been held in Kentucky. It will be a mingling of the Blue and the Gray as this association is made up of soldiers both Federals and Confederates.

PROGRAMME.

9:00 a. m. Assemble at the court house square.

9:30 The old soldiers will march in a body headed by the band to the Ohio County Fair ground.

Assembly call and short address by Pres. Z. O. King.

10:00 Prayer by the chaplain—Rev. H. C. Truman.

Address of welcome—Mayor Jas. H. Williams.

Response on behalf of old soldiers—Rev. J. H. Embrey.

Music by the band.

Address Capt. N. T. Howard—American soldiers in the Spanish-American war.

DINNER.

1:00 p. m. Music. Business meeting of the association.

2:00 Address—L. Reid.

2:30 Short addresses by Old Soldiers.

3:00 Address—Major J. H. Ashcraft, Paducah, chairman of the Shiloh Battlefield Commission.

3:30 Address—R. S. Dunn—Bravery and Heroism of the American Soldier.

Refreshments of all kinds will be served on the grounds, with amusements in abundance for both old and young, but no intoxicants will be permitted sold or used on the grounds and no gambling devices allowed.

You can afford to give this day of all days which is set apart as a legal holiday and which should be dear to the heart of every true American to honor the old soldiers, meet your friends and have a pleasant and profitable time. Hartford always has the latch string on the outside, but for this occasion the latch is thrown away.

The old soldiers of both armies and their wives will be furnished free barbecue dinner. A splendid band of music and the very best of orators will be on hand to entertain.

The Price of Land and Its Lesson.

There has been a remarkable increase in the price of land—farm lands not simply city lots. Through central Kentucky the price has increased from 50 to 100 per cent.

One cause for this is the increase in the price of farm products. When a man can get more for his crops he can afford to pay more for that piece of land adjoining his, which he has wanted for years.

Let the farmers not be deluded by high prices of farm products. Food products are not going to maintain their present altitude because the demand for food develops new sources of supply. Already the price of wheat in the American market has curtailed largely the exports of it. So has the price of cotton checked the export business.

The demand for more farm products can be met by bringing more lands under cultivation, and not also by making the lands under cultivation produce more. The world is not yet land poor. There is a great deal of land in the United States and a great deal in Canada, a great deal in Manchuria that can be made to minister to the needs of a hungry world.

But the best outlook is in better farming. Much has been done in recent years, especially in connection with corn. The selection of the seed, the cultivation of the soil, the care of the crop generally has resulted in certain quarters in a vast increase in the yield of corn per acre.

If it has not resulted so in your case you are behind the times. Send your sons and daughters to some farmers' institute. Go to the fair. Do a little experimenting on your own account. Be careful about your seed, and in a little while you will realize that you have only been raising a half prop.

Until you have gotten out of your land all that it will give you, you ought not to become a land speculator. The trouble, especially in the South, has been too much land for the labor and capital employed.

Let us assume that you are raising wheat and getting twelve bushels to an acre, or raising cotton and getting half a bale to an acre. Your farm is 160 acres.

You think that at present prices you can afford to buy your neighbor's farm, have 320 acres and double your crop.

If you double the crop—that is, if you get as much from your neighbor's farm as you do from your own—the cost per bushel of wheat and the cost per bale of cotton is as great as it was before. You have more bushels and bales to sell, and, of course, you have more profit; but you have got to get interest on the capital invested in two farms.

Now, stick to your own farm with the determination of raising twenty-four bushels of wheat to the acre and one bale of cotton to the acre. It can be done, it matters not where you live. It can be done with less labor than it takes to cultivate 320 acres, and you do not have to have any money to buy land.

This is what is called intensive farming. You cannot cultivate a large farm as around the cities we cultivate market gardens, but we risk little in saying the yield can be doubled on any farm of ordinary land from Kentucky to Texas. But the farmer must study the real principles of agriculture, must prepare the soil for the seed more carefully, must feed the soil as he feeds his farm animals, must select the seed and plant only the best. At the end of the year that man will know that he can double his crop without doubling his investment in land.—Home and Farm.

The old soldiers of both armies and their wives will be furnished free barbecue dinner. A splendid band of music and the very best of orators will be on hand to entertain.

A sound body is both a physical and moral blessing, especially if a well-trained mind accompanies it. But we must guard against education which perfects the body at the mind's expense.

By no stretch of imagination can a beefy 6-footer with bulging muscles be regarded as an educated man if he has a flabby mind. The Annapolis figures suggest there is perhaps not as high an average of mental proficiency among the young men in the schools as there ought to be.

This may have been one of the evidences of wrong educational trend that President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton had in mind when he was in Pittsburgh last month and made a speech which has provoked discussion in all parts of the country, and the dominant idea of which was that the process to which the college man is subjected does not render him serviceable to the country as a whole.

TEACHING DEAF TO SPEAK.

Process Blow But Ingenious Methods Are Used.

In teaching the deaf to speak, of course, the very first words given for the child to reproduce must be elementary, indeed, not words at all, but mere sounds, says Robert A. Sanborn in the Delineator for July. Other syllables are then used, but simply as exercises in control of the vocal organs. As soon as they have mastered these simple positions, whole words are given the child, and, later on, the syllables are corrected, if necessary. In fact, even the older pupils who have long since graduated from the primary drill in speech, are vigilantly watched for slovenly habits of articulation.

Sometimes the child fails in sufficiently vocalizing a word. The position will be excellent, but the sound is weak. The teacher then directs, "Use your voice." The child readily understands this direction, and supplies the deficiency. The meaning of the phrase and the way of obeying it are taught in the very beginning of the work by holding the child's hand to the upper part of the teacher's chest, where he feels the vibrations of the vocal cords. His hand is then applied to his own chest until he has produced similar vibrations. During this demonstration his eyes are kept in observation of the teacher's lips, and the direction is repeated until he has learned its meaning.

The making of aspirant sounds, requiring the forcible exhalation of breath is explained by using a feather which is blown outward. The child also learns the meanings of "blow" and "breath" in this exercise. To add a aid in reproducing guttural sounds the teacher holds one of his hands to her throat, and to her nostrils for the nasal ones and then places the hand to his own throat or nostrils until he made and left the same vibrations. The sounds of "K" and "G" being formed at the back of the tongue, are acquainted with difficulty. In spite of this fact, Alec, who is only 3 years old, can pronounce "cow" as clearly as any hearing child.

The mirror is of particular assistance in teaching the child the positions behind the sounds of these last-named letters. The mirror also serves the purpose of correcting all positions and, consequently, speech. An hour of nearly every day is devoted to sitting with each one he is given the profitable amusement of seeing himself talk. This with the baby is one of the most popular features of his training. He sees his own mouth, and his teacher's side by side and is thus able to observe the tongue from base to tip, to compare positions, and so to perfect himself of the pleasurable task of learning speech.

The Belief in Elixirs of Youth.

"From a cold in the head to cancer, I can prevent or cure them all!" says the famous Dr. Doyen, speaking of his new and marvelous medicine, he says is composed of extracts from natural fements.

Has he found what thousands of alchemists and chemists have been seeking for more than 2,000 years?

Unhappy, the thousand failures of the past have shaken our confidence, and even if Dr. Doyen's remedy is all that he claims for it a year must elapse before the world at large recognizes its virtues.

Egypt was the birthplace of elixirs of life, and the Alexandre monks published so many books upon the subject and upon the possibility of making gold artificially, that the Emperor Constantine lost patience and ordered all the volumes to be collected and burned.

Next the Arabs tackled the subject, and in the course of their researches made several valuable discoveries, some of which still preserve their ancient Arabic names. These are alcohol borax and alkali. The word "elixir" is purely Arabic.

The great Roger Bacon while not being in all the magical gibberish of the alchemists of his day, yet had faith in the possibility of a true elixir vitae. His idea was that it should be composed of aurum potabile—liquid gold; that is, gold dissolved in nitro-hydrochloric acid. His belief is still recalled by the fact that this acid is known to-day as "aqua regia"—royal water.

Bacon told the Pope of the time—Nicholas V.—of his theories, and instanced a story—then universally believed—that an old man of 80 plowing in a field in Sicily turned up a golden phial of yellow liquor, and drinking it, at once was turned into a sturdy youth.

In the fifteenth century a belief grew up that somewhere in the world existed a fountain, the waters of which would confer perpetual youth. In 1513 the famous Ponce de Leon set out from Porto Rico, on a search for this fountain, and, as a result, discovered Florida. Alas! instead of youth the discovery proved his death. He died from the effects of a wound made by the poisoned arrow of a Florida Indian.

To come to later times, Count Matel performed some marvelous cures, and sadly puzzled the world of medicine by "electric elixirs prepared from the saps of a large number of different trees, including the cedar, laurel, pine, fir, elm, polar, etc., and from certain shrubs growing on the Apennines, the names of which he kept secret.

A little later, Prof. Loeb made the startling announcement that common salt is the true elixir of life, and that it not only keeps the heart in action, but may cause it to beat again pulsation has ceased. It is curious that the famous "quack," Paracelsus, a great many years ago, gave careful instructions for the preparation of an elixir of salt.

Some eight or nine years ago Dr. Albert Robin of Paris prepared a "rejuvenator" which certainly had remarkable results in certain cases. Its main ingredient was glycerophosphate of lime. It contained, also, sodium, potash and kola nut.

"In 1903 came the "adrenalin" discoveries. Adrenalin, an enormously expensive drug, is prepared from glands above the kidneys of animals, and has the property of introducing pressure to the blood. By its aid animals that have been apparently drowned or suffocated have been restored to life, and unlike the majority of so-called elixirs adrenalin has taken its place in the "Pharmacopoeia," while no elixir has yet proved itself to be a medicine of valuable properties.

Sheep Raising is Profitable.

Good sheep are profitable when well handled, and in districts of country adapted to sheep. Of course, sheep do the best on dry land; low, moist or swampy lands are not suited to the sheep. The fenced pasture, fenced hog tight, is the proper thing.

As to the number of sheep an acre of land will pasture depends upon the grass the acre will produce, some acre will produce ten times more grass than others, because they are sodded closer, more grass grows on the ground. The best illustration we can give to guide in this regard would be in comparison to cattle. It has always been estimated that a cow in pasture, hay and feed, will consume about the equal of eight to ten sheep. We think this should be lowered a little, say seven to eight sheep. Sheep do not necessarily need large areas to graze over. In the eastern and New England States the farms are fenced with very small pastures, often but three to five acres in an enclosure, and the sheep do well. It is a good plan to change sheep to other pastures where the enclosures are very small. The larger the pasture the less the need for a change.

There are insect enemies of the sheep, but not anything very serious. The sheep tick is easily gotten rid of by dipping. Intestinal, stomach and lung worms are readily destroyed by a few doses of turpentine and oil. The main thing is to select the breed of sheep you fancy most, then get a pure bred ram and breed to a decided improvement each year in the crop of lambs. There is no class of stock that the small farmer can breed and handle to more profit, for the investment, than sheep, except poultry.—Ex-

THE WEEK.

BY JOHN F. PORTER.

The week is a divine period of time. It is the earliest as well as the most exact and simple division of time. It consists of seven days with their dark and light features.

The week is the measure of Jehovah days or creation and rest; and wherever it occurs in the bible it means a period of seven definite periods of time.

The week began with the creation. The first day of creation was the first day of the week. And God called the light day and the darkness he called night. And the evening and the morning were the first day or day one. There are seven periods like this in the week and are enumerated as follows:

And the evening and morning were the first day Gen. 1:15. Second day verse 8, third day verse 13, fourth day verse 19, fifth day verse 23, sixth day verse 31. He rested on the seventh day Gen. 2:2. This record being true the week was established at creation and its days numbered instead of being named. This record shows but seven days. The first week therefore ended with the close of the seventh day. The next week day which followed the seventh day must have been the beginning of another week. The first day of the second period of seven. Then followed the second day, third day, fourth day, fifth day, sixth day, and then the seventh or last day of the second week. As the consecutive days came and passed each period of seven days marked off a week of time as reckoned upon this earth. So too the week is a complete common divisor of God's system of time as revealed in the bible.

Note, in this connection, that as the seven days make a week, so too seven of these bring us to the day of Pentecost. Also that every seventh year is a sabbath to the land, and that seven of these brings us to the jubilee. Thus we have a week of days a week of weeks, and week of years and a week of years weeks, and at their end the sound of the seventh trumpet proclaims liberty throughout the land. The laws number are not only set forth in the bible but enter into the very structure of our universe. Everything is numbered in nature. The leaves upon the trees and the gresses of the field conform to the laws of number. A falling boy is governed in its descent by a fixed mathematical law as well as every planet and the earth itself as it sweeps around its solar centre.

The science of chemistry shows that the elements which enter into the structure of all bodies whether organic or inorganic, are arranged in definite mathematical proportions. The revelations of the microscope are no less startling for it reveals the fact that the different colors are due to the different numbers of light vibrations. So too in music. The vibration number of middle C is 264 if we increase or diminish the vibrations of the string a new tone is produced. Every tone has its own number of vibrations, and the nature of all sounds is such that number governs them all. And there is prime basal number which lies at the foundation of all musical sounds. That number is eleven. So to in the plan of God in the creation. The week is the basis of time. The week too enters into the plan of redemption and resurrection. It was necessary therefore that the week should start with the creation and in its septenary sequence should measure all coming time. It is thought by some that the week began at the giving of the law at Sinai. But the week could no more have begun at Sinai than music to have begun there on the law of falling bodies to have come into operation then. For thousands of years bodies had been falling, planets and the earth had been in motion and would it not be strange that just then they should come under obedience to law? Sound had long been made different tones for thousands of years had been heard, and could it be possible that before this there was no basis number of all these tones. Not so. When the first tone was heard, away back at the creation when the morning stars sang together, it was then, the laws of music—even in the creation of the conditions of sound took definite mathematical form. So the work, it came into existence day by day as the creative acts were the fabric of the material world.

The week is woven into the history of God's creation and it can never be moved from its place as long as the record of creation remains. Men may ignore the record or shut their eyes and refuse to see it, yet it is there; and its presence may be traced among Adam's descendants as well as the bible through all past ages.

It is an uncontroversial fact that no dates are scientific but those found in the bible. All dates are simply successive along the chains of time from the first week and each week is a link in that chain.

Fifty days after leaving Egypt we find Israel before Mt. Sinai and receiving a law. We are told that God spoke to them ten commandments.

The one referring to the week reads as follows: "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work; but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God, in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maid servant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates; for six days, the Lord made Heaven and earth, the sea and all that in them is and rested the seventh day, wherefore the Lord blessed the Sabbath day, and hallowed it.—Exo. 20:10

Let us look attentively at the following thoughts presented to us in the above command as spoken.

1. God speaks to these people as though they knew all about the week and its division into six days and the seventh of rest. He says: "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." How could they remember that day if they had not known about it before? If the week was not known before that time why should God say, the seventh day is the Sabbath? How could they have known which day was the seventh day?

Yours for truth.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Building Up Wealth.

The manager of a big power house recently made an analysis of the amount of fuel energy in 1 pound of coal which was actually converted into electrical energy useful for work.

One pound of coal may be taken to have inherently 10,000 work units. Of these 10,000 possible work units this manager found that 300 were wasted in the ash pit, 1960 in the stack, 560 in banking fires, 800 in radiation and miscellaneous losses. In other words, in the boiler room 3620 work units were wasted.

In the engine room 370 more work units were lost by radiation of heat from the pipes and 4810 work units were sacrificed in the condenser, so that the total engine room loss were 5180 work units. In other words, System, only 1200 work units were actually usable out of the possible 10,000 work units in a pound of coal. One-fifth of the coal bill was paid simply to produce a draught in the smoke stack.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Our Annual Mid-Summer CLEARANCE SALE.

JULY 2 to JULY 9, INCLUSIVE.

July the 4th practically marks the end of the Clothing and Dress Goods Season. As we have done a large business the past season and reaped a fair reward for our work, we can afford to close out the balance of our summer stock at whatever price it may bring. We must clear the decks for action in the fall, hence these extraordinary bargains in Men's and Boys' Clothing, Ladies' Dress Goods, Etc.

We do not hesitate to say that this is the most important sale ever held here. Rather than wait until the end of the season when the demand would naturally be less, and it would be more difficult to move such an enormous stock, we employ the most effective means ever prompted by good business methods, and offer the people of Hartford and surrounding country the most unusual values ever given them.
